

22 January 2008

To whom it may concern

BROADLAND CONSTRUCTION & INTERIORS

Over the past fifteen years or so I have been engaged as executive architect i.e. we were engaged as consultants by the lead design consultant, on a number of projects where Broadland were the main contractors. These projects have mainly involved alterations, extensions and refurbishment of houses and apartments in the valuable residential areas of London.

I have always found Broadland's standard of workmanship and quality of site supervision to be of the highest order. Their quality of general organisation, responsive to instructions and general co-operation has always been excellent as has their ability to meet completion dates and attitude towards variations and final account.

Yours faithfully

Peter Fisk